

One-day Workshop

International Food Safety and Security Workshop Malaysia 2015

26th August 2015

UTM Johor Bahru, Malaysia

A workshop jointly co-organized by Food and Biomaterial Engineering Research Group (FoBERG), Universiti Teknologi Malaysia and Asia Pacific Institute of Food Professionals (APIFP)

Introduction

Asia-Pacific faces diverse and specific nature of food challenges in food security, food safety, poor quality health foods and shortage of food supply. There is a strong need to develop more regional cooperation and collaborations.

Course contents and structure

Sessions:

- Food safety and security situation in Malaysia
- Understanding regional challenges – Asia Pacific
- Animal food products and food security
- Food safety and global food security
- Panel discussion

Trainers

Professor William Riley
Food Safety
Jinan University China

Dr. Malik Altaf Hussain
Food Microbiology
Lincoln University New Zealand

Mr. Andy Seet
Regional MDM Manager
Kerry Group

Professor Dr. Ida Idayu Muhamad
Food & Biomaterial Engineering
Universiti Teknologi Malaysia

Analytical Equipment Demonstration by Supplier

Benefits to attendees?

This introductory workshop is designed to create awareness about global food crisis and challenges. A better understanding of regional food safety and security issues in global context.

Who should attend?

- Food microbiologists
- Food scientists
- Food safety experts
- Food science/science students
- Food supply chain
- Agriculturists
- Government regulators
- Food companies
- Food manufacturers
- Food products/ingredient exporters

Limited seats, get yourself registered!

Registration fees:

RM 250/ local professional
USD 200/ international professional
RM 50/ local student
USD 100/ international student

(Include course material, refreshment, lunch and certificate)

For registration and further information
Email: secretariat_fss2015@cheme.utm.my